Keep to the Right. "Keep to the right," as the law directs. Por such is the law of the road, Keep to the right, who ever expects Security to carry life's load,

Keep to the right with god and the world, Nor wander, though folly allures; Keep to the right, nor ever be hurled From what by the statute is yours.

Keep to the right, within and without-With stranger, and kindred, and friend: Keep to the right nor harbor a doubt That all will be well in the end.

Keep to the right whatever you do, Nor claim but your own on the way: Keep to the right, stick to the true From morn till the close of the day.

I've Wandered far from Thee.

I've wandered far from thee, mother, Par from our happy home; I've left the land that gave me birth, In other lands to roam: And Time since then has rolled his years And marked them on my brow-Yet, still I often think of thee; I'm thinking of thee now.

I'm thinking of those days, mother, When with such earnest pride You watched the dawning of my youth, And clasped me to your side, And memory brings the parting words, When tears fell o'er thy cheek-But thy last, loving, anxious look. Told more than words can speak.

I'm far away from thee, mother; No friend is near me now. To soothe me with a gentle word, To cool my aching brow, The dearest ties affection moves Are all now torn from me-They left me when my sorro s came; They did not love like thee.

I know thy tender heart, mother, Still beats the same for me. As when I left thee long ago, To cross the dark blue sea; But still I love thee just the same: I long to hear thee speak, And feel again thy balmy breath Upon my care-worn cheek.

But ah! there is a thought, mother, Pervades this beating breast, That thy free spirit may have flown To its eternal rest. And as I wipe the tear away. There whispers in my ear A voice that speaks of heaven and thee stroyed. And bids me seek thee there.
